Using learning needs analysis for tailored training

Investing in an intelligent training system that uses the right tools to help your team learn in the most effective and efficient way possible seems like an impossible task, but our solution meets this challenge head-on.

INX InTuition allows you to perform a learning needs analysis to identify the specific learning requirements within your company, sections, or for individuals.

Our easy-to-use training management solution displays which roles require training, visualised on an intuitive graph with advanced filters to show the competency, compliance, and procedural statuses of your workforce – making it easy for your management to identify your workforce's training needs.

Easily create purposeful courses and in-person training events

It's crucial for your workforce's training to be both relevant and informative, ensuring their training teaches them new skills, competencies, or information that pertains to their duties.

With our intelligent software you can create your own training courses, ensuring your training is always relevant and monitors your employee competency based on real-world requirements of your workforce.

Course training events and room bookings can also be scheduled, with nominated attendees based on course and room capacity.

Using automation as a personal assistant

The power of automation cannot be understated – your management team will quickly realise the benefits when their training solution automatically tailors the learning process to their workforce's needs.

Our intelligent training solution is empowered by intelligent automated course enrolments, reminders and personalised calendars – increasing accountability and helping make it even easier for your management to keep track of their team's proficiencies.

Stay on top of your workforce's competencies and compliances

There is more teaching power in training when it's highly targeted and relevant, and that's important when your workforce is required to gain the right competencies and compliances to correctly complete their job.

INX InTuition enables you to tailor the learning experience to easily align with the requirements based on the roles within your workforce.

You can also effortlessly define relationships between your compliances and competencies to represent equivalencies, exceedances, and prerequisites.

Keep your workforce engagement and compliant with INX Academy

It's a challenge for employees to stay engaged with their training modules, one that can only be solved by a powerful tool that offers both a highly engaging approach to learning and the flexibility to grow and adapt to your organisation's needs.

INX InTuition is integrated with a world-class learning management solution, Moodle, offering new and engaging tools and features, better functionality and improved security.

Contractors and employees are automatically enrolled into online Moodle LMS courses based on their role requirements, and every time a Moodle course is completed, their profile is automatically awarded in INX InTuition.

As an example, a contractor who has been assigned the role of "Boilermaker" in INX InTuition will receive the mandatory training module "Hot Works" before arriving on site. Once completed, management can be confident that your worker has the right knowledge to perform tasks safely and effectively.

Keep your workforce mobilised with powerful integrations

Empower your management with the right solutions to help them perform their responsibilities safely. Our integrated workplace health, safety and compliance solution is tailored to the needs of highly complex organisations with a mobile workforce.

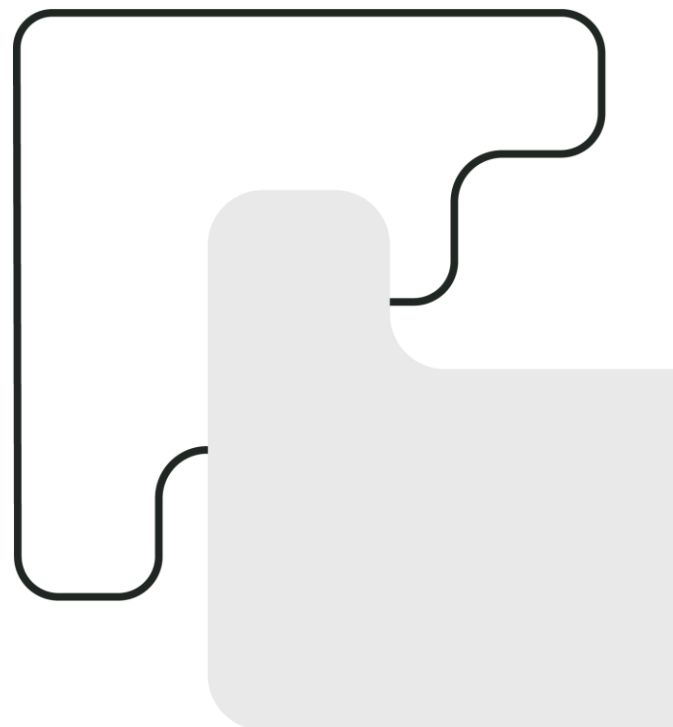

To help streamline the onboarding process, all person profiles created in INX InTuition can be shared between INX InFlight, INX InControl, InHealth and INX InForm—reducing your administration team’s workload so they can focus on their critical tasks. Additionally, all competencies, compliances and procedures (CCPs) added into INX InTuition are also reflected in these person profiles.

To support our workplace health, safety and compliance solution, INX InControl, all competencies, compliances and procedures (CCPs) added into INX InTuition are also reflected in these person profiles.

With our INX Assessor integration, a person's profile, along with linked competencies required to be assessed, are seamlessly shared from INX InTuition, helping ensure that competency requirements are clearly and automatically defined in the necessary assessment form. Once your workforce successfully completes the practical assessment, this information flows from INX Assessor back into INX InTuition, removing the need for manual data entry to effortlessly keep your records up to date.

INX InHealth can also be integrated with INX InTuition to update a person's compliance based on their Health Monitoring results and medical consultation assessments. The status helps organisations to ensure that employees and contractors are fit to perform critical tasks, keeping their people, equipment, and processes safe.

INX+BI also integrates with INX InTuition to support the workforce mobilisation efforts of large, remote and complex operations.
